

The Great Northern Ry

Is Practically Into the Southern Portion of Alberta.---Important Announcement.

The Herald is a position today to make authentic announcement of the most important railway news that has been heard in Alberta for a good while.

James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, has purchased that portion of the Lethbridge and Great Falls railway which runs from Great Falls and the International boundary. The report which was current some time ago to the effect that the Great Northern was buying the Hill's company. The contract for this road gives running powers—over the Great Northern tracks—to the line that Great Northern trains will be running up to Fernie, and east and west from there to Lethbridge.

Drummond McPherson says:

It will thus be seen that the Great Northern has practically already acquired the southern portion of Alberta.

In connection with this deal, another important piece of news is that the advance of this from the Galt company, who has no foundation which would justify the company in claiming that the Great Northern is the owners of their whole system, from Great Falls to Lehighville with the exception of the portion just purchased by Mr. Hill.

The line from Lehighville to Great Falls will be taken up by the Erie & Lehigh, and the Great Northern will then be running into Lehighville.

At present under construction, connecting the Great Northern with Ferns, Lehighville, Lehigh, and Lehigh Falls, will also be operated by Mr. Hill.

The Erie & Lehigh will be owned by James Ross, and has been ordered by the C. P. R. under a lease for a term of years, ending in July of the present year, and it will not be renewed.

The Erie & Lehigh will be considered along with the fact that Mackayville and Mann are pushing into Northampton, and it will be seen that the time is not far distant when Alberta will be enjoying the fullest and freest competition in the market. The importance of this news cannot be over estimated, and further developments will be watched with the utmost interest.

ad by Colonel Dent, and who remained in Montreal in connection with his assignments and see them properly shipped, returned to Calgary yesterday. He says the horses all arrived in good shape and the first batch were shipped four days after their arrival, while other consignments had to remain about two to three days.

The imperial officers appointed to receive the horses were very much pleased with their appearance, saying they were the finest lot of horses they had received from Canada. This was also the general opinion of horsemen in Montreal, who commended them very favorably with shipments from Ontario and other eastern points.

Horse racing is called "The Sport of Kings." Not by anti-gambling societies but chiefly by sporting writers who desire to give their profession an aristocratic dash, and by old fashioned racing men who really love the great sport and have no integrity of heart.

Really, it is a dubious compliment to label racing the sport of kings. Not always have monarchs done the square thing. The bet that can be said of them is that they have been better than most of us, given their opportunities, would have been.

To breed and run thoroughbreds is to have something like a king's bank account. To keep horses must have the finest nature of the ideal king. These are the reasons why the sport of racing is the sport of kings.

The King, when he was Prince of Wales, was probably a leader of racing than any other form of sport. Macleod men he could not ride all over the course and few turned their heads to look at him.

This must have been, to a monarch with the keen knowledge of human nature and sense of humor, as well as by Edward VII., a great relief from the knowledge of his official existence.

Regarding his example it can be said that no sport had better. Presently, in England, at least, stories were doctored about imaginary wars by wealthy racing men.

The Baron de Hirsch had not him $100,000, and it was found he had cancelled the loan in his will, when he died.

He did not do so on any story. Probably it did not do so on any story. He was a man of great power.

STORYS

"Get ready," sharply said Sturtevant, and his words were daily uttered until each crew had caught the water, and the same instant his pistol rang out. "They're off," shouted the people on the river bank, and those who had horses whipped them up, while bicyclists hastened down the splendid road on the river bank, following the crews the mile and a half to the finishing line. There was the greatest excitement nearly as fast as the trials the Argos made before leaving Toronto for Philadelphia.

A few hours after the race had been rowed, congratulatory telegrams began to come in, and they continued until the crew left Philadelphia for home. These wires came from all parts of Canada, a whole gnat being from the city of Toronto.
